ORDER OF WORSHIP

PRELUDE — Prelude and Fugue in G Major, BWV 541 — J.S. Bach

Boyd Jones
Price Professor of Organ

*PROCESSIONAL — Crown Imperial — Sir William Walton

WELCOME — H. Douglas Lee, President

CALL TO WORSHIP — Melissa Knight, Class of 2001

Leader: How precious is your steadfast love, O God!

People: All people may take refuge in the shadow of your wings.

Leader: They feast on the abundance of your house, and you give them drink from the river of your delights.

People: For with you is the fountain of life; in your light do we see light. (Psalm 36)

*HYMN — Praise to the Lord — Lobe den Herren

Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, the King of creation;
O my soul, praise him, for he is thy health and salvation;
Join the great throng, psaltery, organ and song,
Sounding in glad adoration.

Praise to the Lord; over all things he gloriously reigneth;
Borne as on eagle wings, safely his saints he sustaineth.
Hast thou not seen how all thou needest hath been Granted in what he ordaineth?

Praise to the Lord, who doth prosper thy way and defend thee;
Surely His goodness and mercy shall ever attend thee;
Ponder anew what the Almighty can do,
Who with his love doth befriend thee.

Praise to the Lord! O let all that is in me adore him!
All that hath life and breath come now with praises before him!
Let the amen sound from his people again;
Gladly forever adore him.

INVOCATION — Ben Johns, Class of 2001

SCRIPTURE READING — Proverbs 29:18a, Acts 10:9-16 — Antonio Cuyler, Class of 2001

SERMON	"Seeking Worthy Dreams"	Laura Walters Baskett University Chaplain

LITANY OF THANKSGIVING — Luis Maldonado, Class of 2001

You have called us into a great conversation, begun long before our voices were added, yet inviting our participation. For this rich legacy of inclusion and care, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have walked with us in our struggles and in our delights, joining us as our trusted companion in the pursuit of truth. For your abiding presence and steadfast love, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have touched us with those, who as partners in our work, join us in the greater pilgrimage of your way. For their steady support in our journey toward wholeness, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have blessed us with knowing, with the power to shape our worlds and ourselves. For perception and choice, memory and hope, and all of our powers of shaping and doing, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have challenged us with life, with its ever increasing horizons of truth and responsibility. For its unfolding depth and richness, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have entrusted us with your creation and with its truths, leading us into greater insight and wisdom, increased responsibility and care. For this precious gift which binds us each to the other, we, therefore, say:

Thanks be to God.

BENEDICTION — Laura Walters Baskett

LAURA WALTERS BASKETT

Laura Walters Baskett, an ordained Presbyterian minister, is completing her third year as Stetson University's chaplain. A University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill graduate with a bachelor's degree in East Asian history, she holds a Doctor of Ministry degree from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia.

Dr. Baskett was ordained in the Presbyterian Church (USA) in Little Rock, Arkansas, where she served as an associate pastor for three years before teaching English as a Second Language at the University of Arkansas- Little Rock. She and her husband, Tom, then taught English in Shanghai for a year through the National Council of Churches and the Amity Foundation of China. Returning to Arkansas, she received two years of training in clinical pastoral education at the University Hospital of Little Rock, and spent two additional years working as a hospital chaplain.

In 1992, Dr. Baskett accepted a position as associate chaplain and, later, as director of church relations at the University of Tulsa, where she served until coming to Stetson in July 1998. An active member of Central Florida Presbytery, Dr. Baskett serves on the executive committee of the National Association of College and University Chaplains, and is a member of the National Campus Ministers Association.

At Stetson, her chief responsibilities as chaplain include working closely with the Student Religious Life Council and the Trustee Religious Life Council. She coordinates student religious organizations on campus; organizes worship services; supports members of the university community during personal crises; and leads the Religious/Spiritual Life Task Force of Stetson's Values Council.

LITANY FOR COMMUNITY — Leonard L. Nance
Associate Professor of Sociology and Anthropology
Associate Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Leader: Stetson University students, faculty, administrative and support staff, families, and friends,

We come together to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to each other and to Stetson University, and to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to be a loving and inclusive community.

We celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to excellence in education as learners and teachers, and to our religious heritage, which inspires us to center our lives on the quest for meaning and truth.

We celebrate and reaffirm also our commitment to integrate education and action, scholarship and social responsibility, for the purpose of promoting justice on our campus, in our nation, and throughout the world.

People: As a community, we affirm our commitment to excellence in study and action, in the pursuit of truth, and in the search for knowledge to transform life for the welfare of all.

Leader: We come together also to celebrate and reaffirm the fundamental values and beliefs of our community, the values and beliefs that serve as the foundation stones of Stetson University.

People: As a community, we commit to support each other and to embrace the common beliefs which bind us together. We affirm our beliefs in:

- the dignity, worth, and equality of all persons,
- the importance of community in human life,
- the inherent strength of diversity in a community of active learners,
- the value of free inquiry and diverse ideas, and
- the central importance of ethical decision-making and social responsibility in scholarship and citizenship.

Leader: We come together also to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to be lifelong learners, to embrace learning as the core activity in becoming authentic humans living in community, and to give thanks for the liberal learning that helps us to free ourselves from preconceived notions and unexamined prejudices.

People: We accept with gladness the responsibilities of the exalted offices of teachers and learners. We commit individually, and collectively, to the lifelong learning that discloses truth and transforms all life anew. And we honor those who have served before us at Stetson, even as we prepare the way for those who will come after in the pursuit of truth.

MISSION

Our mission at Stetson University is to provide an excellent education in a creative community where learning and values meet, and to foster in students the qualities of mind and heart that will prepare them to reach their full potential as informed citizens of local communities and the world.

At Stetson, the art of teaching is practiced through programs solidly grounded in a tradition of liberal learning that stimulates critical thinking, imaginative inquiry, creative expression, and lively intellectual debate. The art of learning is enhanced through small interactive classes, close student-faculty alliances, and collaborative approaches that provide the foundation for rewarding careers and advanced study in selective graduate and professional programs. We embrace diverse methodologies to foster effective communication, information and technological literacy, and aesthetic appreciation.

We encourage the development of informed convictions, independent judgment, and lifelong commitments to learning that are characteristic features of the enlightened citizen. In bringing together learning and values, the University encourages all of its members to demonstrate personal integrity; to develop an appreciation for the spiritual dimension of life; to embrace leadership in an increasingly complex, interdependent, and technological world; and to commit to active forms of social responsibility.

HERITAGE

Stetson University, Florida's first private university, was founded in 1883 by Henry A. DeLand, a New York philanthropist, as DeLand Academy. In 1887, the Legislature of the State of Florida enacted the Charter of DeLand University as an independent and autonomous institution of higher learning. The university name was changed in 1889 to honor John B. Stetson, the nationally known hat manufacturer who gave generously of his time and means to advance the quality and reputation of the institution, and who served, with Mr. DeLand and others, as a founding trustee of the university.

The first charter stated the object of the university should be "to promote the general interests of education, and to qualify its students to engage in the learned professions or other employments of society, and to discharge honorably and usefully the various duties of life."

Stetson's first president, Dr. John F. Forbes, clearly described the commitment to teaching which has been a hallmark of the university throughout its history:

"Buildings, libraries and apparatus are good and give added power, but the vital contact of students with a vigorous and stimulating mind and heart – this is the sine qua non of a successful education... The most important thing is to find men and women of large heart and mind, apt to teach and full of enthusiasm and stimulating power... to develop in the student the habit of independent judgment – of investigating statements and principles for oneself, and thus for oneself discover their truth or falsity."

The men and women who compose the university's current faculty would find nothing to dispute in that statement.

MACE

The use of maces by corporations dates back to the 13th century. Maces were originally war instruments used for organizing mayhem and were carried by the sergeant-at-arms of the organization. In the European and in the older American universities it symbolizes the dignity and authority of the president and the corporation or the board of trustees.

Stetson's mace, designed by Episcopalian Canon Edward Nason West of New York, was presented to former president J. Ollie Edmunds in 1956 at the May Commencement ceremony. Canon West, of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, is a leading authority on heraldry and the ancient symbolism on which much academic protocol is based.

The mace is described here by the artist:
"Stetson's mace is designed so that anyone could easily place the university's geographic location and chartering power. The palm buds from Florida's state seal form a base for the head of the mace. The legend around the bowl makes the particular institution's motive clear. The crenulations constitute what is known as a "canting device" since they are a play on the Latin word "stet" – of Stetson – meaning "may it stand." The anchor, heart and cross–repeated twice in ornamenting them–are taken from the seal of the City of DeLand. From the top of the mace, rises the shield of the university. The mace takes its basic shape from the mace of the Baptist Long Parliament, thus signifying the Baptist roots of the university."

The mace was made by Daniel Spencer, master gold and silversmith, of William Comyns & Sons, Ltd., London. The firm was established in 1645 and examples of their craft work can be found in St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey.

MEDALLION

The President's Medallion, worn at all official academic occasions, was cast for the inauguration of former Stetson president John E. Johns in 1969. The medallion, cast in silver, is the university seal embraced by a wreath of laurel.

THE STETSON COLORS

The Stetson colors, Green and White, were adopted about the time as the Seal. At the first commencement in 1893 the stage was decorated in Green and White. It is believed that the colors were chosen from the rich green of the orange trees and the pure white of the orange blossoms, a magnificent sight in the spring throughout Florida's great citrus belt. The color white represents purity and green signifies growth.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The traditional pageantry of an academic procession, such as the one which opens today's Commencement exercises, is one of the impressive spectacles of our time. Its significance is attested by the array of handsome gowns and vividly colored hoods worn by members of the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and other officers of the University. These display the symbols of scholarly attainment.

The earliest illustrations of gowns worn at Oxford University in England somewhat resemble cassocks worn by English teachers who found good use for the hood, or cowl, as protection against weather. The American system of academic heraldry indicates the level of a degree, the field of study in which it was earned, and the institution by which it was granted.

The American mortarboard, derived from the soft Oxford cap, is black. Its tassel, for holders of the bachelor's and master's degrees, is usually black, although gold tassels may be worn by holders of doctoral degrees and heads of institutions. The tassel is worn on the right side of the cap by undergraduates, on the left by holders of bachelor's and higher degrees.

It is the hood which provides academic regalia its color and offers the most information about its wearer. The silk lining of the hood bears the color, or colors, of the degree-granting college or university; its velvet facing reveals the color assigned to each area of study. The doctor's gown may bear velvet trimming on the front and sleeves-such as dark blue for Doctors of Philosophy (Ph.D.). A few institutions, mostly overseas but some in this country, authorize the wearing of colored robes, departing from the traditional black and brightly displaying the official colors of the university.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

The circular seal of Stetson University was first adopted between 1889 and 1891, about the time the name of the institution was changed from DeLand College to John B. Stetson University. It first appeared on a university catalogue in 1891. The drawing was by an artist-in-residence and approved by President Forbes, Henry DeLand and John B. Stetson, as well as by the Board of Trustees. The Latin motto, "Pro Deo et Veritate," is translated "For God and Truth." The Lamp, signifying the Light of Truth, rests on the Book of Wisdom.

The seal has been altered slightly several times in the course of Stetson's history. The current version reflects the university's new charter, dated 1995, officially changing the university's name from John B. Stetson University to Stetson University, while maintaining its most prominent and traditional elements: The Motto, the Lamp and the Book of Wisdom.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

DOCTOR OF MUSIC

JUNE M. HINCKLEY

Born in New Orleans, June M. Hinckley grew up in Mississippi and returned to Louisiana for college, earning a bachelor's degree in music from Louisiana Polytechnical Institute in Ruston. A mezzo-soprano, she also studied the piano and cello. After college she taught elementary school music in Florida, New York and Virginia. She returned to Florida in 1975, and began teaching music in middle school, as well as teaching pre-school music methods courses for prospective teachers at Brevard Community College in Cocoa.

She earned a master's degree in administration and supervision in 1977 from Stetson University, and moved into administration in 1979, taking a job as music and fine arts resource teacher for Brevard County. In 1984 Ms. Hinckley was named arts education consultant for the Florida Department of Education in Tallahassee, a position she still holds. She has completed all coursework for a doctorate in music education at Florida State University. Her daughter Elizabeth is also a graduate of Stetson University, where she played the bassoon in the School of Music's Wind Ensemble and earned a bachelor's degree in theatre arts in 1991.

A prolific writer, Ms. Hinckley has published many journal articles on teaching and music, focusing on such issues as "Music and the At-Risk Student," published in 1992 in General Music Today, or "Music in the Urban School," published in the Music Educators Journal in 1995. She served on the Board of Advisors for Stetson's School of Music from 1989 to 1996 and has served on several other boards as well, including that of the Arts Education Partnership, Arts for a Complete Education and the Florida Alliance for Arts Education.

From 1998 to 2000, she was president of the Music Educators National Conference, the largest professional arts education association in the world, with a membership of nearly 90,000 and an annual budget of $8 million. As MENC president, she conducted workshops and gave keynote addresses at 42 state, regional and national conferences; planned a national conference in Washington, D.C., attended by 5,000 music educators; and led national meetings each year for state music education leaders. She also created and developed Vision 2020, a project bringing together music educators and people involved in music around the country to explore the future of music education for our diverse population; and she revised the national music educators' strategic plan, based on the Vision 2020 results.

She currently chairs a consortium of four national arts education organizations: MENC, the National Art Educators Association, the American Alliance for Theater Education, and the National Dance Educators Organization.

Honors Recognitions

Stetson University applauds its May 2001 graduates who have achieved high honors in completing their degrees.

Phi Beta Kappa

Stetson was the first private university in Florida to be honored with a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honorary society. Since 1776, Phi Beta Kappa has promoted "high scholarship, liberal culture, and good character" among undergraduates. Election to Phi Beta Kappa is Stetson's highest recognition of excellence in the study of the liberal arts and sciences.

Pi Kappa Lambda

Pi Kappa Lambda is a national music honor society which recognizes those junior and senior students who have demonstrated superior achievement in their programs of study. Seniors in the upper 20% of the class and juniors in the upper 10% of the class are eligible for membership.

Colleen Fawk
Margaret Ann Mars
Andrew Papadeas

Beta Gamma Sigma

Beta Gamma Sigma is the international honor society providing the highest academic recognition available for an undergraduate or graduate business student. Beta Gamma Sigma recognizes outstanding academic achievements of students enrolled in collegiate business and management programs accredited by AACSB International. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the upper 7 percent of the junior class, upper 10 percent of the senior class, or upper 20 percent of the graduating master's class.

Honors Program

Now in its forty-second year, the Honors Program at Stetson University is one of the oldest in the nation. Its mission is to provide "enriched and intellectually stimulating learning experiences for inquisitive and motivated students." To graduate "In Honors," a student must complete a rigorous sequence of courses in general education, fulfill all requirements for a major (and often a second major or minors), write a personal credo, pass a comprehensive oral examination, and maintain a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0. The Honors Program also has a strong tradition of providing leaders to student government, campus media, and service organizations.
